THE HEAVENS DECLARE HIS GLORY

By: Matthew Brotherton

“The heavens declare the glory of God; And the firmament shows His handiwork” (Psalm 19:1). There is a conversation that has been recorded between Sir Isaac Newton and his friend that illustrates this verse. Sir Isaac Newton invited his friend for a visit and upon entering the room his friend noted a large-scale model of the universe. The model was very detailed and mechanical. “This is the most extraordinary thing that I have seen! What genius put this together? I should like to shake his hand.” Sir Newton replied, “No one made it.” His friend retorted, “You must think that I am a fool . . . Some very wise and talented person made this.” Newton replied, “This thing is but a puny imitation of a much greater system whose laws you and I know, and I am not able to convince you that this mere toy is without a designer and a maker. Yet you profess to believe that the great original from which the design is taken has come into being without either designer or maker. Now tell me, by what sort of reasoning do you reach such incongruous conclusions?”
To God be the glory!
